General Comment

All financial professionals should act in their clients' best interests and that compensation and conflicts should be disclosed and addressed in meaningful ways. Nevertheless, I also believe that investors should be free to make choices about the services and products that they will use to achieve their goals, and that the benefits of any new regulation must be carefully weighed against its costs. I am concerned that if the rule is finalized as proposed, it may limit many beneficial services financial professionals are currently able to provide to retirement investors
